Applying the Brand 42-51

WHAT IS A BRAND?

Our brand is an enduring platform that articulates the Purdue University story, our unique point of view and the experience we create. Most of all, our brand helps us tell a consistent, authentic story to our audiences across all our communications.

These guidelines define and describe the various elements of the Purdue University in Indianapolis brand and how we bring it to life. As we determine the stories we tell and how we tell them, we can rely on the guidance in these pages to inspire our work.

The Sub-Brand Connection

To define the Purdue University in Indianapolis story, we must first draw direct ties to the overarching Purdue brand and then identify the key ways that Purdue in Indianapolis is unique.

The Purdue in Indianapolis strategy will maintain Purdue University's:

Essence

Who we are at our core

Positioning

What we stand for

Personality

How our voice ties to Purdue University

We will differentiate the Purdue in Indianapolis brand by uniquely defining our:

Audience

Who we need to reach

VOICE AND TONE

Brand Narrative ▪ Using the Narrative ▪ Key Themes

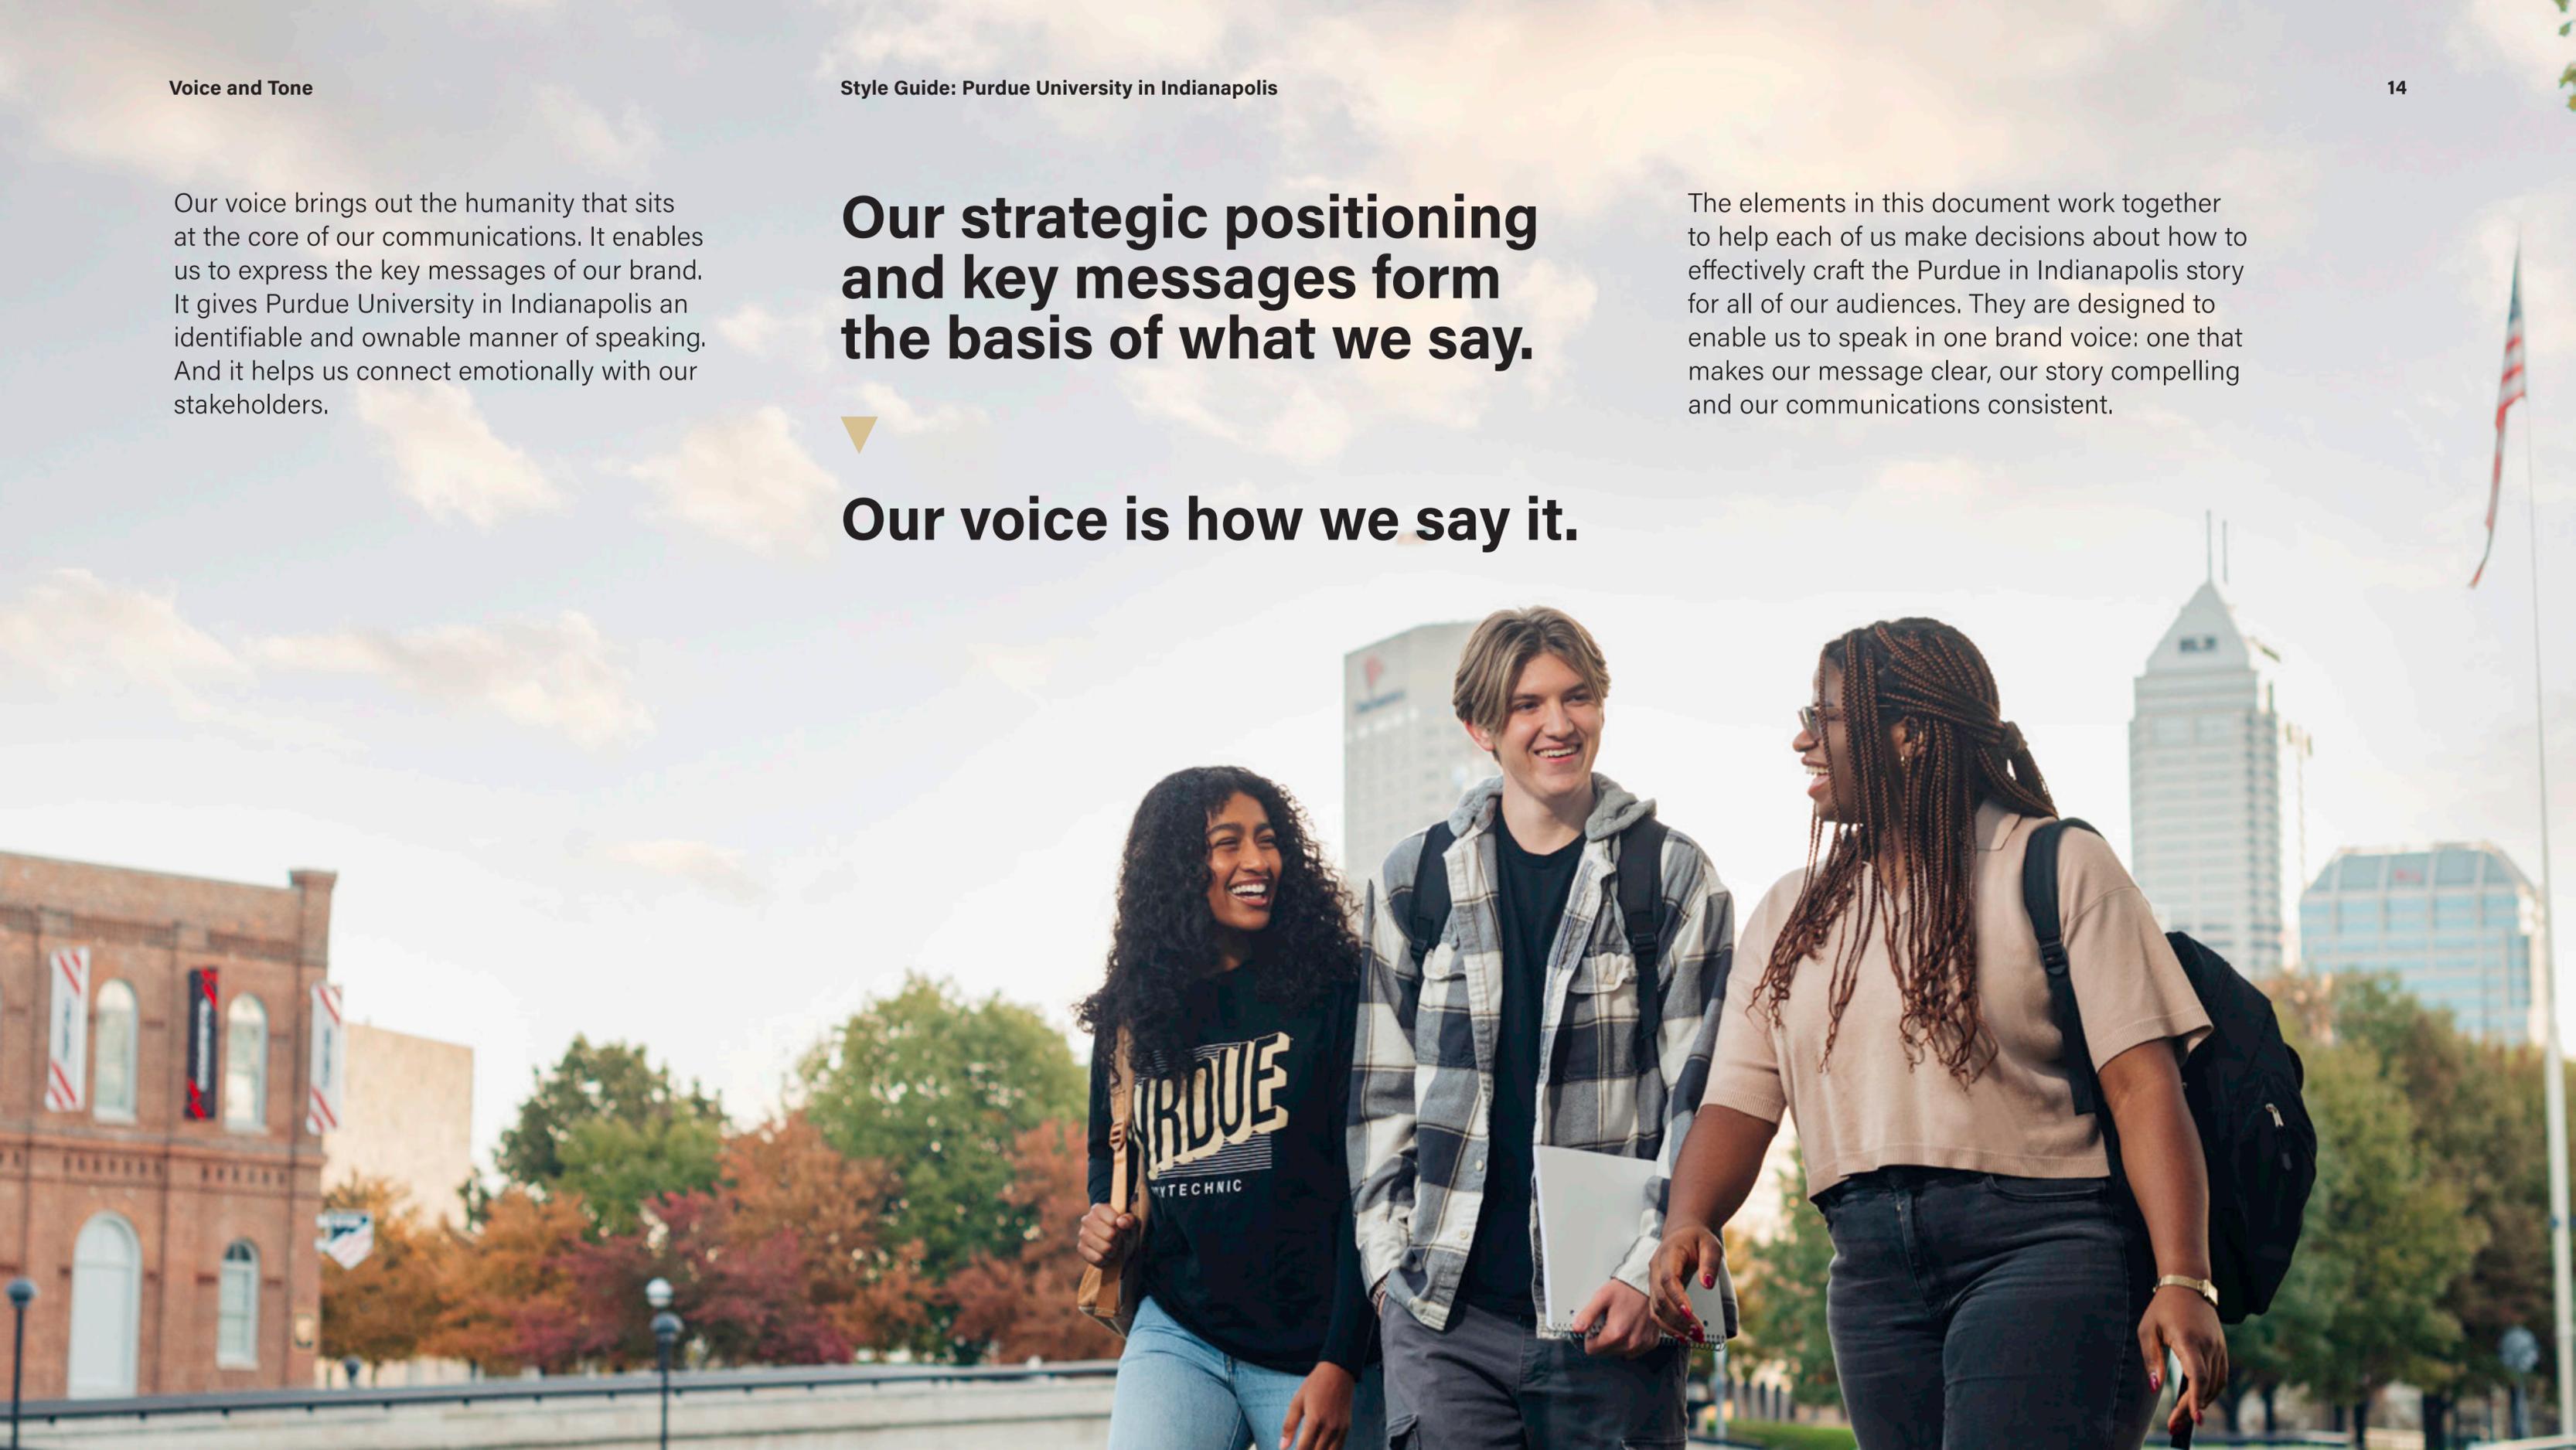

Our voice brings out the humanity that sits at the core of our communications. It enables us to express the key messages of our brand. It gives Purdue University in Indianapolis an identifiable and ownable manner of speaking. And it helps us connect emotionally with our stakeholders.

Our strategic positioning and key messages form the basis of what we say.

Our voice is how we say it.

The elements in this document work together to help each of us make decisions about how to effectively craft the Purdue in Indianapolis story for all of our audiences. They are designed to enable us to speak in one brand voice: one that makes our message clear, our story compelling and our communications consistent.

Brand Narrative

These paragraphs are designed to tell our story at a high level and to help set the tone for our brand language. As we think about translating our brand strategy to real communications, these words and phrases demonstrate how to craft our messages so that our audiences pay attention and receive them.

This language isn't intended to be used word-for-word in external communications. Instead, use it as inspiration: pulling relevant phrases when appropriate, adopting its tone whenever possible and mirroring its construction when helpful.

It's the risk-takers, the innovators, the game-changers who are drawn here. They come from all over, to be here, in Indianapolis. They bring their curiosity, their drive and their persistence to build something new together. Something faster. Something better. Something bigger.

Here, you'll find a world-renowned institution that's securing the future of the world's most innovative industries. You'll find experiential, hands-on, real-world learning that's driving immediate impact.

Here, we're shaping the jobs of tomorrow with direct connection to the industries that are building them.

We are a community of problem-solvers creating a world of opportunity. We are thinkers and doers, unafraid to dream big.

We bring a storied persistence that drives us forward again and again and again. Here you can transform your future as you build the future, discover who you are and create what's next.

Here you can connect, innovate, invent, grow, lead and inspire. You can ignite a better world for all of us, from a place known for its drive, its speed, its acceleration.

It's here where you can take your next steps.

Purdue University in Indianapolis.
Your next giant leap is here.

Using the Brand Narrative

The language from our brand narrative is written to be used as a guide for all other communications. Its spirit, tone and energy can help ensure that you're using the brand voice appropriately and that we're all communicating in a similar style.

NOTE: Specific copy standards for Purdue in Indianapolis can be found through the Purdue Brand Studio portal: marcom.purdue.edu/toolbox/editorial-style-guide

Ensure that our personality comes through.

The tone of what you're writing should capture the spirit of this narrative and convey its inspiring, confident feeling. It should help you make appropriate choices to convey our relatable voice. Make sure whatever you're writing sounds like it's coming from a person who possesses our personality traits and who sounds like the language in our narrative.

Maintain consistency.

When every communicator uses the narrative as a guide, we can ensure that all communications work together as a family, with one common voice and a consistent brand identity.

Amplify our story to ensure that it is heard.

By keeping our communications consistent, compelling and clear, we can create an incredibly powerful story and a tremendously potent message. Together, we can share one story multiple times, across all media, with all our audiences.

Give context to our messaging.

We have a wide variety of stories to tell and plenty of information we need to deliver. By couching this information within an interesting and compelling narrative framework, we can help ensure that our message is not only received, but also remembered. When all of our content aligns with this positioning, we give our message heightened meaning and greater relevance.

Speak with a united voice across colleges, schools and locations.

Our Indianapolis location includes The Mitch Daniels School of Business majors. Daniels School has its own brand localization. Communications pertaining to Daniels School in Indianapolis should use brand language that is common to both, such as future-ready leaders, real-world learning, STEM-infused programs, innovative majors and tackling today's toughest challenges. See Section 5 for an example of combining the Indianapolis brand with the Mitch Daniels School of Business brand localization.

Key Themes

At the heart of the Purdue in Indianapolis story is the Purdue story. All of the language we employ for the Purdue brand is applicable and relevant. We help our students transform their small steps into giant leaps. We persistently pursue what's next. And we do it again and again and again. It's important to make the case that Purdue is Purdue, no matter where we're operating and no matter which audience we're addressing. Consistent use of our brand voice will help maintain a link to the wider Purdue brand.

IDENTITY

Guidance ▪ Nomenclature ▪ Logos ▪ Parameters ▪ Color

Guidance

The vision and intention of Purdue University in Indianapolis is to be an expansion of Purdue University. The metropolitan location and offering will uphold the Purdue reputation and enrich the Purdue enterprise story. Our master brand is one of the most prominent and recognized university brands worldwide. Consistent, correct usage of the logo is vital to protecting that equity.

PRIMARY

The signature Purdue University logo is the primary visual identity for Purdue University in Indianapolis.

In rare cases, the modifier to the Purdue University logo that reads "in Indianapolis" may be used by Purdue Brand Studio only to provide context to the audience. All outward-facing material must use the signature logo without the modifier.

Intention behind this logo:

Build awareness, credibility and trust for Purdue in Indianapolis

Create a clear distinction from Indiana University and IUPUI past

Generate "Purdue" excitement among first-year students, faculty, staff and the neighboring community

Communicate unquestionably that Purdue has arrived in Indianapolis

Position Purdue in Indianapolis as one of the nation's most innovative ventures in higher education

Nomenclature

Nomenclature is a system or set of rules used to shape a brand’s overall identity. A well-thought-out brand nomenclature also creates coherence and consistency.

Establishing nomenclature for Purdue University in Indianapolis will foster consistency among the brand’s communicators and ambassadors, and strengthen awareness and differentiation.

On first reference, use “Purdue University in Indianapolis.”

Additional references can use “Purdue in Indianapolis.”

Copy should never use “Purdue Indianapolis,” “Purdue University Indianapolis,” “Purdue Indy” or “Purdue in Indy.”

For guidance on general terms to use in reference to Purdue in Indianapolis, including “campus,” “location” and “expansion”, please refer to our online copy guide at: marcom.purdue.edu/toolbox/editorial-style-guide

Logo

Our logo signature acts as an identifier, highlighting our location and connection to the quality and impact of Purdue University. It should always be the most consistent component in our communications.

NOTE: Logos and other identity assets must never be manipulated, altered or modified.

Vertical Alignment

The logo is stacked and centers the Motion P and wordmark.

Horizontal Alignment

The wordmark aligns to the right of the Motion P, allowing the signature to scale the full width.

Parameters

By maintaining clear space and establishing size limits for the logo signature, we can represent our brand in its best light, while maintaining readability and clarity.

Clear Space

The logo should never feel like it's crowded or competing for attention. To avoid this, always allow ample clear space so that it's free of distractions. Use the height of the Motion P as a measuring tool for the proper clearance.

Sizing

To ensure legibility, do not reproduce the logo at widths smaller than indicated above. There is no maximum size limit, but use discretion when sizing the logo — it should always live comfortably and clearly as an identifying mark.

Color

Our logo is built to be flexible and adaptable for all printing and digital applications. These versions show the full range of approved color variations. The color of the background will determine which version of the logo to use.

NOTE: These variations of our logo are available in CMYK, spot color and RGB.

THREE COLOR

Whenever possible, the logo should appear in three colors, as shown here.

FULL COLOR, REVERSED

ONE COLOR

The one-color logo should be used sparingly: only when printing restrictions demand it.

Photography

Photography plays an important role in our brand communications because it tells our story visually. Although our words are compelling, images go further to offer powerful proof of what we say.

Our images tend to fall into two broad categories: capturing city life and academic moments. Both help offer a visual snapshot of the energy and academic space offered within our Indianapolis location.

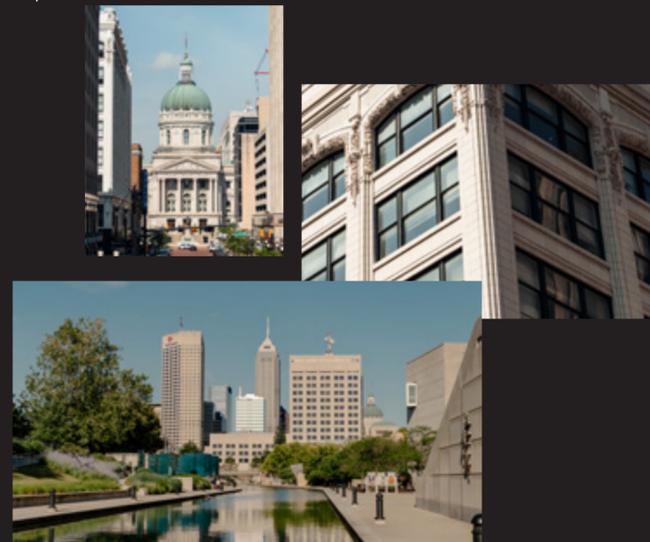

One unique aspect to our imagery for Purdue in Indianapolis is its overall tone and post-production aesthetic — these photos have more grit and texture, and dial up darker tones significantly.

NOTE: Some images used in this section are stock photos that are not owned by Purdue. Therefore they cannot be used in any print or digital designs, or otherwise. They are featured as inspiration for future photo shoots and direction for lighting.

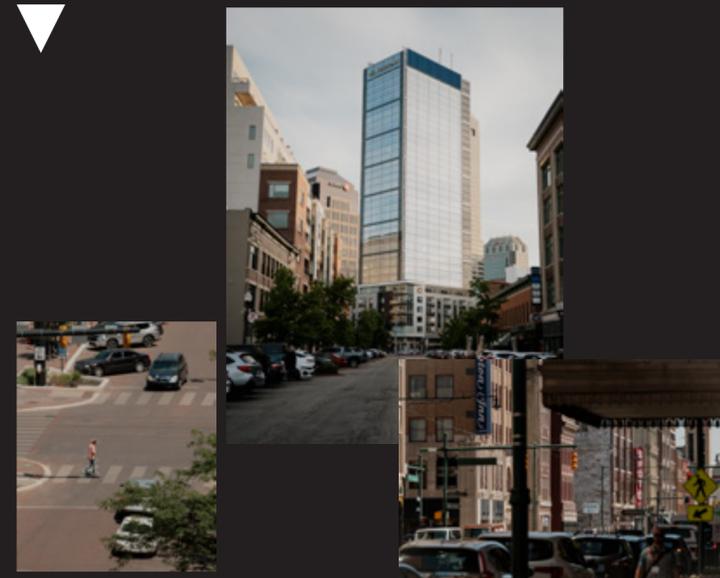

Photography: Capturing City Life

Architecture Spotlights

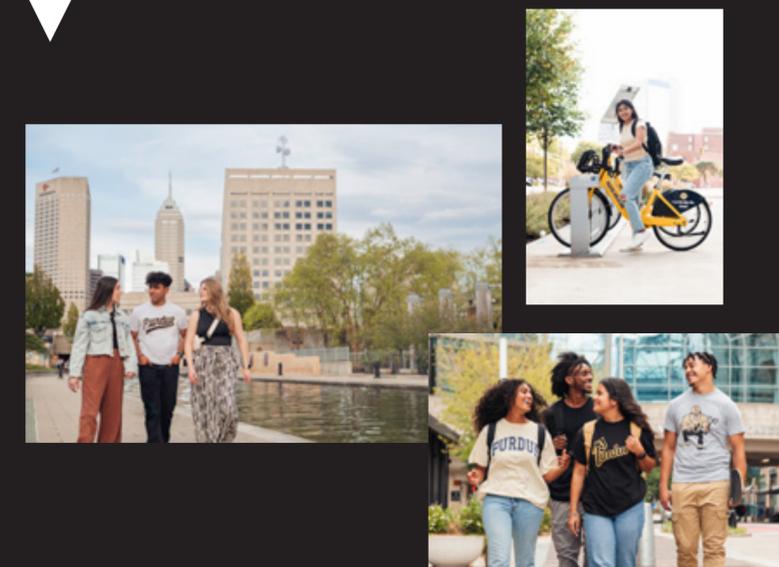

From building facades to skyline features, these spotlights provide a real and intimate snapshot of life in Indianapolis. They should feel more immersed in the city than typical tourism shots.

Infrastructure Accents

Patterns, crosswalks, transit — we ground compositions in the small nuances that make city life feel urban, with subtle nods to the environment surrounding our downtown.

Active City Living

These moments capture our students and location community amid our urban environment, with a candid and slice-of-life aesthetic — intentionally living among these spaces instead of visiting or posing near them.

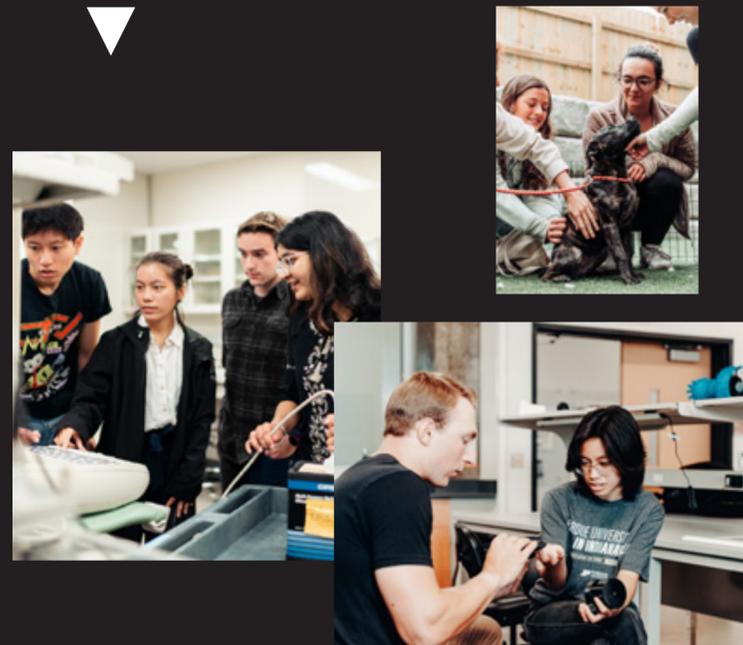

Photography: Academic Moments

Individuals

Our community is built on a strong collective of innovative individuals. Our portrait style presents people as heroes within an environment.

Interactions

Collaborations spark the small steps toward what's next. When we capture group moments, they should always feel active and engaged — never posed or symmetrical.

Immersed

Compositions with tight crops or obstructed foregrounds can create a sense of depth and immersion that aligns with the focus and passion our individuals bring to their work.

Photography: Post-Production Presets

To give our photography its own look and feel, inspired by our urban setting in Indianapolis, we've developed a collection of editing presets with the following goals in mind:

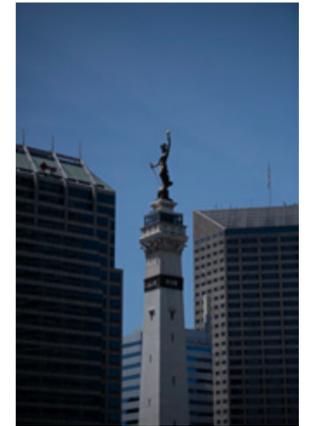

- An overall feel that's welcoming and inviting
- True and flattering depictions of diverse skin tones from across our student body
- Cooler tones in shadows to mimic the character of the downtown location
- Higher contrast for an exciting and eye-catching aesthetic

Some details about our approach to these presets for Purdue in Indianapolis:

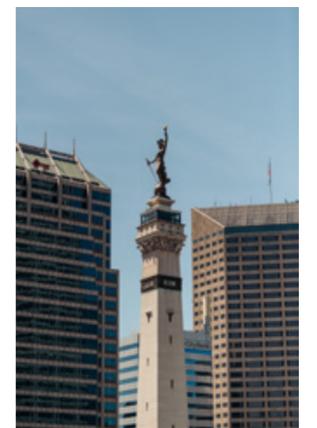

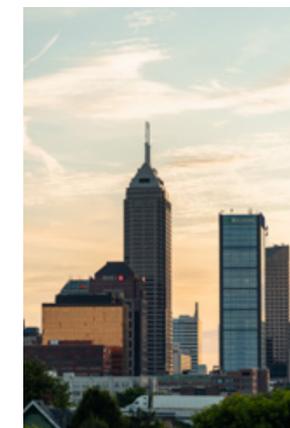

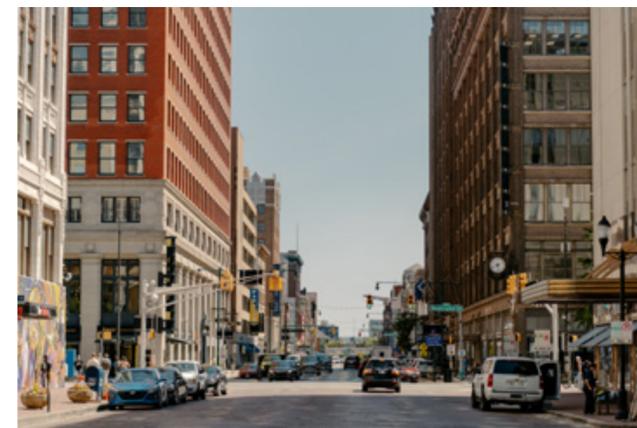

- Natural white balance
- Vibrant yellows to highlight Purdue gold
- Preserved detail in highlights and shadows

When needed, we can share these presets with certain partners to make sure that all images are edited in a similar fashion. The presets will need to be adjusted based on the photographer's camera settings — focusing on the basics such as exposure, white balance, highlights, shadows, blacks, whites, etc. so that we maintain the same overall feel.

Before

After

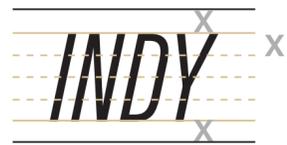

Graphic Elements: Line Extensions

Our work and the experience at Purdue in Indianapolis are in constant motion and enduring. To visualize that spirit, horizontal strokes accent headlines to “extend” their impact and create a sense of motion.

Line extensions can be simple or elongated, but never should feel like an underline to the typography.

For lines above and below type, use 1/4 of the x height for spacing.

NOTE: The horizontal lines never intersect with the typography — there is vertical space proportionally scaled to the headline and the stroke to allow for negative space around the text.

When using horizontal lines with photography, the lines should always run behind the photo layer.

Crossroads

A subtle nod to our city's nickname — the Crossroads of America — these accents are used to anchor photo containers within layered compositions. They should be used sparingly.

Graphic Elements: Photo Stacks

The Purdue in Indianapolis experience is layered and infused with energy and opportunity because of the mash-up of our location and academic moments. Photo stacks allow us to visually show that experience.

Photo stacks are rhythmically balanced collages that mix images from two different categories: a portrait or an academic moment, paired with an urban or location photo. These graphic elements should always remain simple and never exceed the ratios to the right — but the scale of the images to one another will be dictated by the composition's needs.

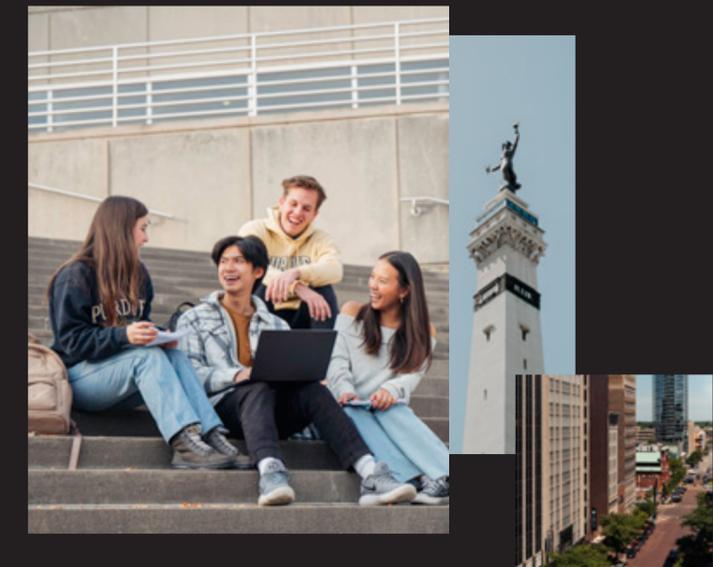

NOTE: There should always be one photo that is dominant and one that is secondary — our photo stacks should never be equal in scale to one another. The smaller photos should “lift” the primary photo forward.

Using the master and Indianapolis brands together

When both West Lafayette and Indianapolis are featured on a creative asset, such as top-of-funnel admissions materials and initiatives that span both campuses, the master brand is primary with elements from the Indianapolis brand layered in.

The creative asset is a vertical layout with a tan background. At the top left, a photo of a football game is layered over a photo of two female students sitting on a ledge. Below this is a black box with the text 'TWO EXPERIENCES'. In the center is a map of Indiana with callouts for 'CHICAGO' (2 hours drive time), 'WEST LAFAYETTE', and 'INDIANAPOLIS' (1 hour drive time). Below the map is the text 'one Purdue' in a serif font, followed by 'EXPLORE all Purdue has to offer ...'. At the bottom left, a photo shows three students sitting on a lawn. At the bottom right, a photo shows three students working on laptops at a table. Text blocks for 'WEST LAFAYETTE' and 'INDIANAPOLIS' are placed over these photos. A vertical text 'SMALL STEPS START HERE.' is on the left side.

Indianapolis: Photography layering

Master brand: Diagonals

Copy blocks give equal attention to both locations. Indianapolis focuses on hands-on learning and career-ready students; West Lafayette focuses on a traditional college experience.

Boilermaker Gold is a primary color in both the master brand and Indianapolis brand, but additional master brand colors, such as Rush and Dust Gold can be used.

Both brands share the font Acumin Pro, but additional fonts from the master brand can be used.

Applying the Indianapolis brand to Daniels School of Business

The Indianapolis brand serves as the primary visual hierarchy when showcasing Daniels School in Indianapolis. Key elements of the Daniels School brand — such as photography, building blocks and connection points — can be integrated to clearly differentiate Daniels School within the Indianapolis brand system.
